ANTI-GAY BILL INTRODUCED IN THE SENATE

A new bill, S-1808, "The Family Protection Act of 1979" has been introduced at the urging of an anti-gay group, Moral Majority, headed by Rev. Jerry Falwell. This bill would among other things, make DISCRIMINATION against homosexuals a LAWFUL practice. It would also prohibit federal money being used for gay legal services or organizations that present homosexuality as an acceptable life style.

That means CETA funds would be cut off and it would have a devastating impact on mental health programs serving the gay community that depend on federal grants.

The bill was introduced by Senator Paul Laxalt (R-NV), who is Gov. Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign co-chairman. His bill also calls for prayer in schools, right-to-work provisions for teachers, no "sex-intermingling in sports" and prohibits legal services funds from being used for school desegregation.

According to THE ARIZONA GAY NEWS (14 December 1979), the three concepts related to gay civil rights are:

Concept 36: This prohibits legal services funds for homosexual rights litigation.

Concept 37: This section forbids allocation of federal funds under any authority from being awarded to any organization, group or other entity which advocates homosexuality, or presents homosexuality as an acceptable alternate lifestyle.

Concept 38: This provision would write into law a statement that discrimination against declared homosexuals would never be considered an "unlawful employment practice."
(Taken from "Concept Summary" from Senator Laxalt's office)

Although this bill may not pass, many of its concepts have a chance of being introduced as floor amendments (to other bills) in the future according to Steve Endean, lobbyist for the Gay Rights National Lobby. GRNL urges that supporters of basic justice respond in the following ways.

- 1) Write to your Senators (at Senate Office Bldg, Washington DC) urging their opposition to S-1808 and send copies to GRNL.
- 2) Circulate petitions urging opposition to "The Family Protection Act" and send them to GRNL, 1608 17th St, NW, Washington, DC, 20009.

How can you ignore this blatant anti-gay legislation after the National March on Washington, HR 2074 (the National Gay Rights Bill in Congress), and other steps forward that we have taken?

survivors sought

A Sacramento gay researcher is searching for the remaining survivors of the Nazi holocaust against gay people. The Nazi government of Germany incarcerated and murdered thousands of gay people. Captured Nazi documents were micro-filmed by the US General Services Administration. They tell of the existence of the death penalty for gay people, and record several mass executions--in isolated cases. Jok Church, a free-lance writer and former radio news director, is collecting the verbal histories of camp survivors. Church says, "The account of these add to the dimension of humanity to the documentation process." Church would like to contact survivors. The histories can be collected anonymously. A resume from Church with letters of reference is available on request. Gay people who survived the camps can contact Church by writing him at 4908 13th Ave, Sacramento, CA 95820; or by calling (916-457-3412). (SONOMA COUNTY NEWS 5/79)

malpractice times two

PITTSBURG--A Pennsylvania superior court has ruled that the parents of a handicapped girl who was conceived despite a vasectomy and born despite an abortion can sue the doctors involved for medical malpractice but that the child cannot collect damages for "wrongful life." The court found no legal precedent establishing that a "child has a fundamental right to be born as a whole, functional human being." (PLAYBOY January 1980)

film co. needs help
NEW YORK--A group of Lesbian and Gay filmmakers from New York and California who gathered together in order to film the National March on Washington are in need of financial support in order to complete the project. The producers and crew of this film which was shot in 16mm color have offered their services on a voluntary basis but still require funds to cover the high expenses of production. A spokesperson for the group said, "As we have learned from experience, we cannot rely on Hollywood or the establishment news media for an accurate portrayal of ourselves. Please don't allow our own coverage of this crucial event in the development of our movement to be lost. Donations made by individuals, organizations and businesses will receive screen credit unless it is specified that screen credit is not desired. ## DEATH THREATS

TEHRAN--The Justice Minister in the government of the Ayatollah Khomeini, Asdollah Mobasher, has accused a New Zealand gay rights organization of issuing a death threat against him. The New Zealand ambassador, who was apparently negotiating a sale of NZ sheep, apologized--before having seen the letter sent to the minister by the National Gay Rights Coalition. The letter, which was subsequently published, protested the execution of 26 homosexuals by the Ayatollah's revolutionary government, and hoped that Iran would "maintain its revolution without restricting individual freedom and human rights..in its fight for national self-determination and independence." The letter was signed by New Zealand's gay rights coordinator, Robin Duff of Christchurch. NZ's Minister of Foreign Affairs later admitted that the letter "certainly contains no threats." Reports that Iran's Justice Minister has gone into hiding are unconfirmed. The fate of the sheep has not been determined.

NO GAYS ALLOWED

WASHINGTON--Carter officials here have quietly sabotaged efforts to include

Gay families in a planned National Conference on Families. The move by Carter staffers came when the National Advisory Committee, which was established to advise the administration on the conference, voted not to enumerate such diverse family groups as single parent families, poor families and Gay families for special attention at the conference.

Sources close to the conference planning claim that the conference chairperson, Jim Guy Tucker, called some of the forty-one members of the National Advisory Committee and asked them not to approve any resolution which would have included Gay families. Tucker told committee members that the Carter administration feared a right-wing attack on the conference if Gay families were even discussed. Tucker, a former Congressman from Arkansas whom Carter personally appointed to head the conference, told many advisory members "How can we tell the governor of Nevada he has to have Gays on his delegation to the conference?" One of those whom Tucker did not contact was San Franciscan Harold Yee, a member of the advisory committee with strong political ties in the Gay community.

The National Coalition for the White House Conference on Families, an unofficial but highly influential group providing guidelines for the advisory committee, had voted unanimously to include Gays. This group includes the U.S. Catholic Conference, American Red Cross and the National Gay Task Force.

a look in the closet at:

TRANSPEOPLE

There are so many myths and misconceptions about transvestites and transexuals, it's hard not to be reminded of the gay stereotypes which the gay movement has been fighting for the past ten years. The truth is that transpeople are not necessarily gay. No, they are not the drag queens that you see performing in the local show bars. Transpeople are usually heterosexual males who feel as though they should have been women, but are instead trapped inside of a man's body.

There are equally as many women who are transvestite or transexual as there are men, but due to clothing styles and changing roles it is easier for women to blend in. For the male the desire to BE a woman is different from the "drag queen's" desire to dress as a woman to attract the attention of other men. Instead, the transperson's dream is to walk through the neighborhood grocery store without anyone noticing. They want to blend in, to be treated as the opposite sex, not sexually as much as socially.

Social acceptance is not an easy thing for a transexual or a transvestite. Many emotional problems occur when the individual has difficulty accepting their feelings. Just as a gay person also has difficulty at first accepting their own sexual orientation, the transperson must deal with two distinctly different worlds, as well as the change from one to the next. The sexual orientation of a transperson does not change. Therefore, a heterosexual male becomes a homosexual female. These gender changes, however, are more than emotional.

Transvestites experience physical changes also, without the help of hormone treatments. Transpeople have a 23-day cycle similar to the 28-day cycle of women. For approximately two weeks, the female personality dominates, waist and wrist size decreases. The breasts and hips become larger and the mannerisms more feminine. The following two weeks, the male dominates and the body takes on more masculine characteristics. Only the voice remains unchanged throughout this cycle.

Transexuality and transvestism is not a sexual abnormality nor is it a psychiatrically treatable condition. It is, in fact, an alternate sexuality, which has existed in these people since childhood.

But still transpeople face oppression, the same oppression that gays faced 20 years ago. So if you see a transperson in a gay bar or other gay establishment, don't make the mistake of believing that they are mocking gay lifestyles or attempting to fit in where they don't belong. They are simply living out their lifestyles and orientation in an environment where they have a better chance of acceptance from people who understand oppression and stereotypes than from the straight community who started the stereotype game to begin with.

is tenth in zodiacal sequence. Its nature is "Cardinal Earth" giving a determined practicality. Capricorn nature concerns itself with career, business security and ambition. Generally, the career involves business, even large corporations. This sign approaches matters conservatively and with seriousness. Intuition often is an asset here as well.

In accord with its symbol, the mountain goat, Capricorn has a certain surefooted direction that enables survival and success through whatever challenges that may block progress. Its key phrase is "I use" meaning that Capricorn utilizes all knowledge, experience and materials it can assemble. Capricorn builds!

An excessive Capricorn vibration can produce too much rigidity or even greediness. Likewise limited social outlets could be the result of accentuated Capricorn nature resulting in periods of loneliness.

Physically Capricorn rules the skeletal system and in particular the knees and the teeth. Capricorn may experience health difficulties as a child but then improves continuously healthwise to the extent of being the most long lived of the signs!

Phil Comi & Ron Cole Questions & Answers:

Q. Several issues back you discussed the planet SATURN and referred to "Saturn Return." Does such an event occur to everyone?

A. Yes, Saturn "returns" to the same position in the sky as it was at the time of ones birth every 28 years approximately. In other words, it takes that length of time to transverse all the signs of the zodiac and complete a cycle.

During the 12-month period of the return at age 28-29 an individuals life undergoes strengthening usually through rather difficult testing. The final result is the enhancement of natural career talents, ambitions, goals, and the waning of any non-productive or aimless directions.

Questions will be answered. Provide date, time and location of birth. If interested, call 997-8787 for information regarding Basic Astrology Classes or private reading.

When it comes to the legalities of setting up house keeping together there are more laws than you might imagine. The problems are more prevalent for straights who have "roommates" than for gay people, but being knowledgeable of the "dos" and "don'ts" of living together can make gay relationships and break ups far more hassel free. The following ideas are condensed from an article in ESQUIRE Magazine, September 1979.

The laws affecting couples who live together vary from state to state, are poorly defined and extremely out of date. In some states certain sex acts are expressly prohibited and it is still a crime to share your bed with someone who is not your legal mate (see chart on page 8). It is illegal to have "unnatural" sex in Arizona, make love to someone you're not married to in Utah and live together in South Carolina. Living with someone could cost you a fortune if you're straight and get any sexual human being thrown in jail. But there are some basic rules to setting up a relationship.

LIVING TOGETHER AND PLAYING IT SAFE

Living with someone does not legally imply some sort of contract. The law is open to interpretation here, so it is very advisable for you to write out your own contract, especially where money is concerned. This can protect you from all kinds of ownership problems when you split.

When it comes to debts, not being married gets you off the hook, unless you jointly own property or have joint bank accounts. If your lover has debt problems DON'T mix your money, property, etc.

The best way to handle economic affairs is to keep everything separate from day one, except in emergencies.

Everything which you originally owned should remain in your possession after the break up.

If there are any expensive items which you intend to buy and own jointly, put that down in writing too. Also include who contributes how much toward payment for the item.

If the item happens to be a house you will need a formal document.

If you plan to register a car jointly be sure to register it in "your name and your lover's name" rather than in "your name or your lover's name". In the latter case your lover could legally sell the car without your knowledge.

Regarding credit, if you both work there is no need for joint credit.

If one of you needs to borrow money DO NOT BE A COSIGNER.

Don't try to file joint tax returns--it won't work!

Written contracts are the best insurance you can get in a relationship, it will guarantee that if you lose your lover, you will at least keep the rest of your possessions.

For more information on contractual agreements you might want to get the book THE LIVING TOGETHER KIT (Nolo Press $8.95) which was written by two attorneys, Toni Ihara and Ralph Warner, who incidentally, live together. ■

This month, theatres should begin showing the movie HEART BEAT. Nick Nolte and Cissy Spacek star in the story of the complicated relationship between Jack Kerouac, his wife and Allen Ginsberg. There's no advance word on how the homosexual aspect in the lives of these Fifties writers and thinkers will be handled.

After great success on the British stage, Robert Sherman's play BENT opened on Broadway in December. After making movies like LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR, YANKS and the upcoming AMERICAN GIGGOL, actor Richard Gere could probably have any Hollywood role he wanted. But he turned them all down, as well as the chance to play Hamlet on Broadway under Franco Zeffirelli's direction, to star in this play about the treatment of homosexuals in Nazi prison camps.

Critics in Time magazine and the New York Times approved the play wholeheartedly. Others generally agreed that the play is powerful, but questioned the technical quality of the writing. BENT implies that homosexuals received worse treatment in the camps than Jews, and some have questioned the play's historical accuracy.

United Artists has mounted a campaign to win an Academy Award nomination as Best Picture for LA CAGE AUX FOLLES, a most unusual move since the picture isn't even France's official entry for Best Foreign Language film. Only half a dozen foreign movies have ever been nominated as Best Picture. None of them were comedies and none of them won.

The same studio is also trying to get Allan Carr to produce an American version of the movie. This would presumably happen some time in the future, since

rick casillas

after finishing the Village People movie Carr is committed to making a film version of the musical Chicago with Liza Minelli and Goldie Hawn. As it stands now, the plan is to star Jack Lemmon and Tony Curtis in the American version. Lemmon and Curtis haven't worked together since they impersonated women in SOME LIKE IT HOT.

United Artists also acknowledges that a weekly television comedy based on LA CAGE AUX FOLLES is not beyond the realm of possibility. This is the same studio that will release CRUISING in February.

Meanwhile, ABC has given Barney Miller's producer Danny Arnold the go-ahead to come up with a pilot for a weekly situation comedy about two male lovers. The project may or may not make it to this Fall's TV schedule.

Whatever the advertising may look like, the French film ROBERT ET ROBERT does not have a homosexual theme. Two critically acclaimed foreign films do. NIGHTAWKS follows a male schoolteacher as he cruises London's gay bars by night. In Germany's THE CONSEQUENCE, a man imprisoned for child molestation is seduced by the warden's son. Both pictures have been in release longer than LA CAGE AUX FOLLES. Neither has yet played in Phoenix.
